DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

2. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Jerman et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,134,207, from hereinafter "Jerman") in view of Aksyuk et al. (U.S. Patent No. 5,923,798, from hereinafter "Aksyuk").

Jerman discloses an optical switch apparatus (fig. 12, ref. 104) and method formed on a single substrate (fig. 12, ref. 213), having an input (fig. 12, ref. 98), four outputs (fig. 12, ref. 151), a first and second actuator (fig. 12, ref. 180) coupled to a first and second mirror (fig. 12, ref. 103), respectively, such that the mirrors, which are disposed parallel to each other and offset and spaced to each other (col. 15, lines 43-65), can be moved to and from a range of extended and retracted positions (col. 16, lines 25-47) to reflect various outputs. Jerman further teaches comb drives (col. 18, lines 30-47) for positioning the mirrors in retracted and extended positions. However, Jerman fails to specifically disclose a notch in the mirrors and a second extended position of the mirrors.

Aksyuk discloses an optical switch device with a mirror having a notch (fig. 9a).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have included a notch in the mirror and a double comb-drive actuator since one would be motivated to move the mirrors in a second extended position and allow passage of optical signals through the notch to increase reflective output combinations. According to Jerman, the mirrors can be fully retracted or fully extended providing a wide range of reflections possibilities (col. 16, lines 38-47). This flexibility is indicative of using second extended mirror positions to provide greater output possibilities. Furthermore, with the incorporation of double comb-drives, which increase the accuracy in mirror actuation and positioning, a compact size and cost of manufacture is limited (col. 1, lines 53-63), thereby achieving a more efficient and more reliable optical switch.
